Adobe Illustrator Adobe Illustrator, formerly known as CorelDRAW, is a vector drawing program that uses lines, curves, and bezier lines to illustrate things on the screen. In other words, Illustrator creates vector drawings rather than raster images, allowing for a much greater degree of cleanly and precisely editing and enhancing any drawing you make. Illustrator is a program of choice for making hi-fi finished art because it's powerful and easy to use for creating logo-like designs. It's an old-school program, however, and can be extremely intimidating for beginners who don't have a creative background. You can use Adobe Illustrator to create all kinds of graphics. Create realistic or cartoon-like images, and even write a novel. How's that for versatility? Just try the free trial version before you decide if you can make your money stretch to the full version. Adobe's website offers Illustrator tutorials and illustrative tips. CreativeLive also has a great amount of Illustrator tutorials.

A new prediction of the coupling time of heteroduplex clusters generated by means of dye-primer labelling technique. In this study the coupling time of heteroduplex clusters generated by means of dye-primer labelling technique (DPLT) has been predicted. The prediction is based on a simple physical model of the reaction between template and primer which has been derived from the surface-and-volume model of DNA hybridisation kinetics. The model has previously been verified against the diffusion controlled initial rate behaviour for homoduplexes. In the present study the model has been extended to heteroduplexes in order to predict the coupling time for DNA heteroduplexes. The model has a number of inherent limitations concerning its applicability to DPOC. These limitations have been identified and a careful analysis made to ensure that the results obtained in this study do not depend on these limitations. The latter is achieved by an analysis of the kinetic data obtained from the experiments made on oligonucleotides (as reference) and on DNA heteroduplexes of different lengths and sequences. The results obtained are encouraging and a prediction of the coupling time of a DNA heteroduplex of ~17 nucleotides is presented.

Saturday, February 12, 2012 Baltimore Fire Department responds to car fire On Sunday, February 6th, 2012 around 6:35am, Baltimore Fire Department (BFD) responded to a car fire in the 700 block of N. Cornell Street. When BFD arrived, a black Chevy Malibu was fully engulfed in flames. Three occupants of the vehicle were outside of the car. Two adults were sleeping in the front seat of the car, while one adult male was standing outside of the vehicle. The BFD apparatus extinguished the fire and all three passengers of the car were removed safely. No damage to the car was reported. An investigation into the cause of the fire is ongoing. The Investigative Services Division (ISD) is continuing to pursue the investigation and will provide updates as they become available. and nine years of age. From the adult's point of view, the definition of age of majority is the age at which one is capable of giving consent. To be legally capable of giving consent, it must be established that the person is of at least the age of fourteen and that the person is of sound mind. In other words, both age and mental soundness must be established. In the case of minors who are not of at least the age of
