Description of the Related Art A magnetic recording medium such as a magnetic tape or a magnetic disk for recording magnetic information is formed by coating a magnetic coating composition containing a ferromagnetic material, e.g., a magnetic powder, and a binder on a substrate, followed by drying. In recent years, magnetic recording mediums with very fine magnetic particles, or magnetic particles with a higher saturation magnetization, have been investigated to increase the recording density and the recording capacity. When a ferromagnetic material with a high saturation magnetization is used, the magnetic properties tend to fluctuate in a high-temperature environment. That is, the magnetic properties of a magnetic recording medium are changed due to environmental conditions such as a heat influence and a humidity influence, because the ferromagnetic material in the magnetic layer is formed as a thin film. As the environmental conditions become severe, particularly in a high-temperature and high-humidity environment, the magnetic properties of the magnetic recording medium tend to
